Best quality

We maintain a consistently high quality of products and processes. Both raw materials and packaged finished products are checked by our skilled employees and the BBX X-ray machine, from the moment of arrival until shipment time.

We work with more than 450 suppliers, our high standards also apply to them. Not only must they comply with the regulations of the Flower Bulb Inspection Service, but also with our established quality standards, which we check throughout the year

Quality control takes also place in our testing ground, where we can check over 2,000 varieties, including new ones. We only introduce those species that actually complement the existing range.

Punctual, efficient & fast

To us, service means primarily a global, punctual and total delivery of the products. We provide added value by listening to your wishes and advising you on market opportunities. We work with fresh products, therefore the fastest possible delivery is crucial. Our entire logistics process is arranged to supply Just-in-Time (JIT).

We deliver both small and large orders within a very short period of time. Our ERP system ensures optimum production and maximum reliability of deliveries. All pallets are equipped during transport with a Radio Frequency Identification chip, this ensures that the right pallet enters the correct transport method.

It's all about the perfect blend

Our product development team spends a great deal of time creating beautiful blends. The combinations are planted in our test garden or in our Keukenhof garden to see what varieties go along well. The success rate of a blend depends on the height, bloom time, color scheme and trends in gardening.

Tips for successful planting

- Plant spring flowering bulbs in the fall, they need a period of winter cold for the best results.
- Good drainage is essential.
For better drainage you can also add some topsoil.
- Most bulbs do well in areas that do not receive direct sunlight during the afternoon, but they will tolerate the sun.
- Early flowering bulbs are great to be inter-planted in a perennial border.
- Various bulbs can be inter-planted together to enjoy a longer flowering period.
- Improving drainage and by adding bulb food, you can improve the flowering results.
- Mulch will keep the moisture in and will also protect the bulbs from harsh winter conditions.
- If the fall season is dry you might need to water the area as needed.

Allium

Alliums supply an excellent range of landscape winners.

Not attractive to deer.

Most allium prefer a sunny site with well-drained soil. Alliums are perfectly hardy and very popular.
